

POSITIVE OUTLOOK

A Needs Assessment of Front-line
Care Providers Working With People
Living With HIV and Depression

Le-Ann Dolan, CWGHR

Canadian Working Group on HIV and Rehabilitation
Groupe de travail canadien sur le VIH et la réinsertion sociale

Acknowledgements

- Public Health Agency of Canada
- Survey Participants
- Ontario AIDS Network & the Ontario HIV Treatment Network
- CUHRRC & CWGHR

Purpose

To identify capacity building needs of front-line care providers who work with people living with and vulnerable to HIV and show signs of depression

Methodology

- A needs assessment survey was circulated in May 2011
- On-line via Survey Monkey, both French and English, national in scope
- Promotion of survey via multiple dissemination tools
- Survey was anonymous
- Analyzed using excel

Results

- 430 individuals were contacted
- 80 responded
- 64 completed survey

Results

- Common mental health issues identified by respondents
 - Anxiety (100%)
 - Depression (98%)
 - Addictions (88%)

Results

- Mental health issues identified by respondents differed by size of community

Smaller Towns

- Isolation
- Stigma
- Lack of services

All Urban Centres

- Trauma
- PTSD

Results

- Priority mental health issues varied by region

Vancouver & Quebec

- drug use and addiction
- fatigue
- homelessness
- poverty

Toronto, Vancouver & Ottawa

- immigration
- newcomers

Results

- Provision of mental health services
 - did offer services (48%)
 - did not offer services (40%)
- Services offered included:
 - referrals (78%)
 - one-on-one counselling (75%)
 - informal supports (67%)
 - support groups (54%)
 - peer supports (54%)

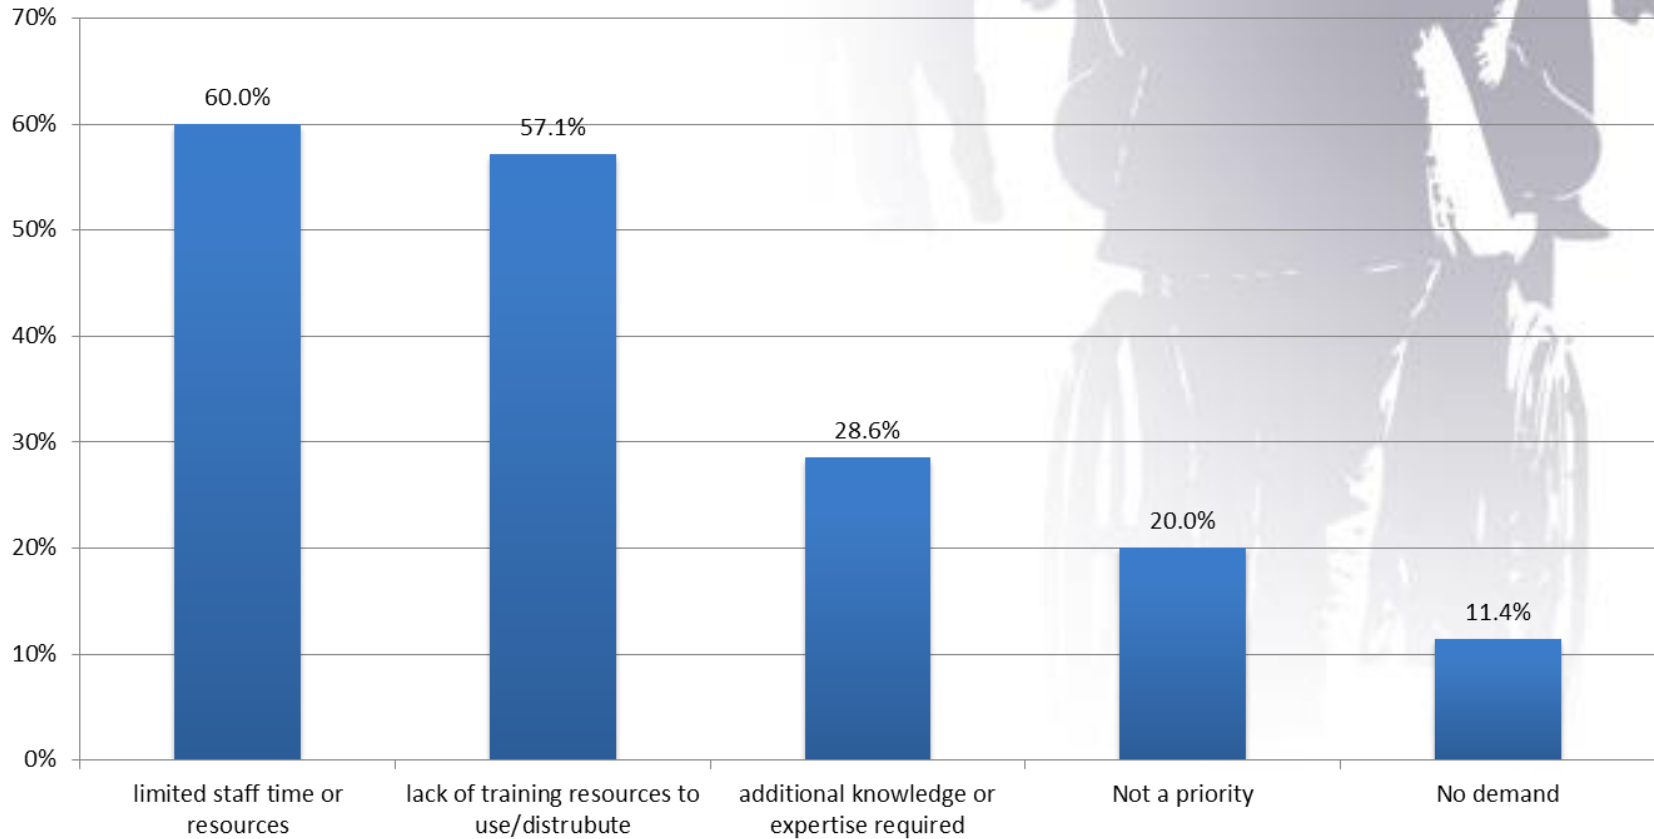

Staff Training

- Previous education / training
 - had not received any training (45%)
 - had received training (45%)
- Of those who received training
 - indicated that training was sufficient (49%)
 - indicated that training was not sufficient (31%)

Staff Training – Why Not?

Why have staff not received training on Mental Health and HIV?

Training Needs

- Workshop:
 - 94% indicated that they would be interested in training/workshops

“the more information staff have the better our understanding, then the better we can serve our clients.”

“It’s a complicated issue that we face daily. The opportunity to learn, share and maybe debrief together would help us to feel more supported and confident in our work.”

Positive Outlook

For further information on this needs assessment please contact:

Le-Ann Dolan ldolan@hivandrehab.ca

416-513-0440, ext. 224

Or visit

http://www.hivandrehab.ca/EN/information/care_providers/PositiveOutlookWorkingwithHIVDepressionandRehabilitation.htm

